Louis Seabolt, a seventh grade pupil at the Shields building, had a distressing accident Wednesday evening. While playing in the school house yard he ran against a girl and in the collision cut his tongue on his teeth. He was taken to his home on Ewing street and a physician called. The latter found it necessary to take three stitches to close the gash. The cut and the swelling of the tongue caused the boy much pain but it is not believed any serious injury will result.

DIED.

SHIELDS.—Dr. James S. Shields, after a long and active life, died at 11:50 Wednesday night at his home on Indianapolis avenue. Until recently he had been in fairly good health aside from natural infirmities that come with old age. The night of January 5 he suffered a stroke of paralysis and did not afterward fully regain consciousness.

Dr. Shields was born in Vernon January 24, 1834. He attended the schools there and received his medical education at Ann Arbor and at the Ohio Medical College at Cincinnati, being graduated from the latter. He had studied in Seymour with his brother, Dr. J. T. Shields, and practiced some here in 1853 and 1854 but he began his active work in the profession at Mitchell in 1856 for the construction companies which were building the O. & M. During the years since that time he has been engaged in the practice and in other pursuits at a number of places. He practiced here and at Cortland and Medora in this county. He retired a number of years ago from active work, his last regular practice being in Hamilton county. During the war he was engaged in the drug business in Seymour and sold out to Andrews & Charlton. He was of an inventive turn of mind and at different times devoted considerable time to such work.

He was married March 4, 1857 to Miss Mary E. Martin of Mitchell who is still living. Six children were born to them and three survive him. They are Dr. James M. Shields of Seymour, W. T. Shields, who lives in Oklahoma and is an engineer on the Rock Island, and C. B. Shields of St. Louis.

He was a man of ability, was always busy whether engaged in the practice of his profession or out of it, made friends easily and held them, was respected and liked generally.

The funeral services will be held at the house at 9 a. m. Saturday. Burial at Riverview.

SENTIMENT DIVIDED

Among Local Democrats on the Governorship Question.

The Brownstown Banner says: "At the present state of the game it looks like John W. Boehne, of Evansville, is the choice of the Democrats of this vicinity for governor."

It is still an open question as to how the two leading Democratic candidates for governor, Ralston and Boehne, will fare in support from Jackson county.

In Seymour there is a division of sentiment. Several prominent Democrats here are for Boehne but as one of them said this morning it is doubtful whether any one of the leaders will take the trouble to organize in behalf of the Evansville man. On the other hand numbers of the local party leaders are for Ralston and some of them are men who generally take an active hand in the selection of delegates and have much to do in determining the attitude of the county's delegates in outside conventions. It is a reasonably safe guess that Ralston will have his full share of votes from Jackson county.

FOUR ECLIPSES IN 1912

Two of Moon and Two of Sun; One of Each Visible Here.

Two eclipses of the sun and two of the moon will take place during 1912. One eclipse of each celestial body will be visible in this section and the other two will be visible to practically all parts of the United States, according to the last almanac. The eclipse of the sun, which can be seen here, is scheduled for April 17. The eclipse means that the central part of the sun will be in shadow. The phenomena will be seen at its best just at sunrise on the morning of April 17. The visible eclipse of the moon will be September 28. It may be seen in central and western parts of the United States and in Australia and the Pacific coast islands. This section lies at the extreme edge of the line of vision of this eclipse. The moon will be seen from here to enter the shadow at 6:30 on the morning of September 26th.

Goes On Forever.

No one can tell when an advertisement ceases to do its work. Instances are known in which copies of old newspapers have been discovered in out-of-the-way places the advertisements in which have sold goods. In Dalton, Ga., recently a local newspaper received an answer to an advertisement that appeared a year ago in that publication. A hardware firm in an eastern city one day received an order for an article that it had advertised ten years before, but had not manufactured for nine years. Upon making inquiry it learned that a farmer in taking up a carpet had found a paper containing an advertisement of the article hidden beneath it and had been so impressed with its quality that he immediately wrote for it. From which we may conclude that as long as a single copy of the advertisement exists it may sell goods.

Directors Elected.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Seymour Mutual Telephone Company the following directors were elected for the year 1912: J. B. Thompson, W. L. Johnson, J. H. Matlock, J. T. Pruden and Holmes Thompson.

Talk about coincidence, the Brookville American has got them all beat to a frazzle. Twenty years ago last week Will Bergen, an employee of that office, fell on the ice and received such an injury that the paper was one day late in getting to press on account of the lad's disability. Last week the American was again late one day, (twenty years later,) and Bergen was again disabled by falling on the icy pavement, causing history to repeat itself.—Greensburg News.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE

PENSIONING MOTHERS.

Speaking of laws—
One of the most humane statutes of any state is the mothers' pension law of Illinois.

It is this way:
In most states when a mother is left a widow with children she is unable to support the state steps in and makes the children motherless as well as fatherless.

That is to say, the state takes the children from the mother and puts them in an orphan asylum or some charitable institution.

Which when you come to think of is monstrous.

The state takes the child from its mother, who of all persons is most able and willing to care for it properly—to "mother" it—and puts it into a big brooding pen with a lot of other children.

And it calls that benevolence!

Of course the purpose is a benevolent one, but it is mistaken kindness. When you rob a child of its mother you rob it of its best friend, and when you rob a mother of her child you rob her of all that makes life worth while.

Now—
Under the law of Illinois instead of separating mother and child the pension act allows every deserving mother from $5 to $10 per month for each child. The pension continues until the child is self supporting.

And this pension is of right and not of charity.

How much better than to take children from their natural mothers and put them in a crowded pen under charge of a matron.

Or—
How much better than to put widow and children under the care of a supervisor of the poor, after the manner of most states, and dole out to the family—as paupers—so much of beans and bacon and coal.

The cost is the same.
Illinois gives the mothers the money. They know better than any superintendent of the poor how to use it, to say nothing of the suspicion of graft that often attaches to the purchase of supplies for the poor.

Let the mother keep her kiddies.
She will do better by them than any stranger. They are her children. To bring them into being she has gone into the jaws of death.

In a hundred years from now it will be told of this generation as an unspeakable cruelty that society actually took children away from their own mothers.

Business Getters, "Republican Want Ads."

Turbulent Impulses Curbed.
Lawrence, Mass., Jan. 17.—There have been no further serious demonstrations on the part of the striking textile workers, the presence of more than 500 armed soldiers and the knowledge that the state was ready to throw thousands more in to the city if occasion demanded, evidently acting as a damper on the desire to riot and destroy property.

MANICAL TOLD OF EXPLOSIONS

Federal Grand Jury Hears Horrid Tale of Dynamiter.

HE GAVE A DETAILED ACCOUNT

Beginning With the First Explosion Pulled Off by the Wreckers in 1905, Government's Star Witness Entered Into Circumstantial Details of Various Deeds of Crime and Told How Infernal Machines Were Made.

Indianapolis, Jan. 17.—The most important witness in the five years' dynamiting record of J. J. McManigal, Orville McManigal, went before the federal grand jury and entered upon a detailed account of the outrages perpetrated in various parts of the country. He began with the first dynamiting in 1905 and detailed all the circumstances of the explosions of the first two years, adjournment for the day stopping the narration.

McManigal not only told of the explosions, but of the purchase of dynamite, clocks, fuse and other articles used, but of the manner in which it was transported and over what railroads. The witness said he did not work for the iron workers before June, 1907, and the cases to which he testified before that time were discussed with him by others, and in this way he became conversant with the details. He will likely be on the stand for two or three days.

Dr. Blaine Empson died at his residence at Dudleytown, Ind., Jan. 10, 1912, of a complication of diseases, after a sickness of about six months. Dr. Empson came here as a young man just beginning the practice of medicine, and by his knowledge of his profession and by his genial manner and innumerable kindly actions he soon gained the warm friendship of our people which not only lasted until his death, but we treasure up his memory in our hearts. From the time of his death until he was taken away Saturday there was a constant stream of people in to take a last look at the kindly face that they should see no more, many coming for miles and miles to see him. Saturday morning Rev. Diemer of the Lutheran church held funeral services at the residence which greatly gratified the relatives and friends. After this service the remains were taken to the home of Daniel Empson, father of the Doctor, and Sunday the funeral services and burial took place at the White church in Driftwood township, there being present hundreds of people. A wife and son, Daniel, Jr., survive him.

A PRETTY FACE

Proves Good Asset In Young Woman's Travels.

The young woman referred to in the following special from Columbus was in Seymour last summer and was at that time having a penniless experience. Her pretty face served her here and tender hearted citizens of the masculine variety helped her to continue her journeys. The Columbus special says:

Miss Rose Mayhew was her name, she said, and her occupation was that of a cowboy. She said her home was in Idaho, and that she had come to this part of the country to obtain employment. Only her pretty face and her tearful story kept her from being put off a north-bound Pennsylvania lines passenger train near Jeffersonville. When the men in the smoker heard about her they raised money to pay her fare and gave her money to pay for her lodging in Indianapolis.

Miss Mayhew says she has been riding a herd in Idaho, but when winter came she gave up life in the saddle and sought work in Louisville. She found nothing to do there and climbed aboard a Big Four train for Indianapolis. The conductor discovered that she had no ticket and gently but firmly put her off. She boarded a Pennsylvania lines train for Indianapolis last night. She was stylishly dressed and wore a fur coat. Conductor Edward Dalton did not ask her for her ticket until the train had passed Jeffersonville, when he found that she was without a ticket. She also insisted that she was penniless. Dalton told the story to some passengers in the smoker and a collection was immediately started.

SEIZE SLAVE BUYERS

Prominent Frenchmen Involved in Traffic of Girls.

Revelations Are Horrible and Public
Sentiment So Great, That Paris
Magistrate Commits Pair to Jail
Without Bail.

Paris.—A revelation of the white slave traffic, which has shocked all France as proving the dimensions of the trade, resulted this week in the arrest of two persons who have had considerable influence here.

One of the accused is Victor Flachon, who until the warrant was issued was director of the newspaper La Lanterne and a man of considerable political and literary importance. The other is Gaston Allard, a wealthy manufacturer. To both provisional liberty was allowed at first, but the revelations became so horrible and public sentiment was so inflamed that a magistrate committed the pair to prison without bail.

Investigation shows that the traffic in young girls is widespread. At first it was estimated that three hundred girls have been sold recently in Paris. Now the police say they have the names of forty persons who have been involved in the trade and that it is regularly organized. Some of the leaders are mothers of the children in whom they dealt.

So far investigation fails to show that the traffic extended to America, but the police say it is very doubtful if the negotiations have been confined to Paris. The band's chief merchandise was minor girls. Flachon and Allard are accused of having bought children through agents. The girls and their mothers, whom the police hold, tell astounding stories of orgies. Seemingly Flachon and Allard had no knowledge of each other. Now, without denying their immorality, both insist that their prey were all older than thirteen—the age of consent under the French law. Flachon has hinted that he is being made the scapegoat. He threatens to make even more sensational revelations which will involve prominent politicians who, he vows, are equally guilty with him at least.

Because of the prominence of the accused men and the extent of the traffic so revealed the scandal has held the most important place in public attention.

FREE IF IT FAILS

Your Money Back if You are not Satisfied with the Medicine We Recommend.

We are so positive that our remedy will permanently relieve constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine at our expense should it fail to produce satisfactory results.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and tend to make constipation more chronic. Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous.

Constipation is caused by a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect permanent relief you must therefore tone up and strengthen these organs and restore them to healthier activity.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our recommendation. They are exceedingly pleasant to take, being eaten like candy, and are ideal for children, delicate persons, and old folks, as well as for the robust. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They apparently have a neutral action on other associate organs or glands. They do not purge, cause excessive looseness, nor create any inconvenience whatever. They may be taken at any time, day or night. They will positively relieve chronic or habitual constipation, if not of surgical variety, and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments, if taken with regularity for a reasonable length of time. 12 tablets, 10 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Sold in Seymour only at our store—The Rexall Store. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Primitive Race.

In the more inaccessible parts of the Sierra Madre mountains in northern Mexico live a curious people called the Tarahumaris. Many of them dwell in caves, but they have also small villages, all of them about 8,000 feet above sea level. The Tarahumaris are small in body, but possessed of much endurance. Their only food is maize, and they manufacture a drink called teshuin from the same cereal. Their language is limited to about 300 words, and they cannot count beyond ten.

Feminine Curiosity.

Little Eleanor's pretty cousin wore a new engagement ring, and the budding woman regarded the ring and the giver alike with reverent eyes. One night when the happy man has been invited to Eleanor's home for dinner, Eleanor, unconsciously gushing, burst forth with: "Oh, Mr. Blank, do please tell me. In all the love stories I've read the men propose so sudden. When it's coming on, does it—does it feel anything like a sneeze?"

One of the flourishing women's colleges in England is Bedford college, which existed for many years in Baker street, London, and is now transferred to a beautiful new building in the middle of Regent's park, looking on to the lake, and surrounded by lovely lawns and flower gardens; almost a realization of Tennyson's "Princess."

BULL HOLDS MAN PRISONER

Farmer Gilbraith Calls Off His Bovine Watchman When Hunter Is Faint.

New York.—A hunter, who said he was Edward Mishel of Hoboken, was treed by a bull on the farm of Henry Gilbraith of Monteville, N. J., from seven o'clock in the morning until after dark, when he was released by the farmer calling off the bull.

Mishel was so cramped from his long imprisonment that he was unable to stand on his feet and had to be removed to the farmhouse in a wagon.

Gilbraith has his farm posted against trespassers, but hunters gave no heed, and in order to keep them off he turned out a young bull and gave it full sway over his farm by taking down a few fence rails here and there.

After being chased through and around a grove for a quarter of an hour Mishel dropped his gun and climbed a tree just in time to save himself from the onslaught of the enraged animal. At a safe distance Mishel hung on, believing that the bull would soon retire. In this, however, the man was mistaken.

Gilbraith permitted Mishel to remain at the farmhouse for the night, as he was too weak and lame to go home.

HURT THRICE KILLING TURK

Colorado Man Has Plenty of Bad Luck Getting His Dinner Ready for the Kitchen.

Greeley, Colo.—William Morton, a farmer living near here, is nursing injuries he received while attempting to kill a turkey for the family dinner. Morton went out to capture the largest gobbler in a flock, carrying in one hand a small ax with which he intended to behead the bird.

Having cornered the turkey, he reached for it, but a sudden flapping of wings put the end of a feather in his eye. The bird escaped and Morton started after it, but stumbled and cut his hand on a piece of glass. However, he finally succeeded in catching the gobbler, placing its neck on a block, and as he raised the ax his foot slipped and he cut off the end of his big toe on his left foot. His son recaptured and killed the bird.

CHAPTER VIII.

THE FIGHTING HOPE.

RAVEN rang sharply for Mrs. Mason.

"Isn't Miss Dale better yet? Hasn't she recovered sufficiently at least to remember the combination of that safe? By heavens, woman, she must! There's a letter in there we must get out and take into town tonight. We've already missed the last decent train, and now there's nothing left for us but to take that thundering motorcar of Temple's and drive in!" Craven spoke irritably. He was past the limits of patience.

"I've been talking to her," said Mrs. Mason quietly. "I think she is soon coming down herself."

"Puritans and petticoats!" muttered Craven after Mrs. Mason's retreating figure. "I bet there'll be a man at that typewriter next time," looking angrily at the empty desk.

Temple came in and looked at it too. "It's my fault," he said. "I should have sense enough to remember the combination myself. Poor Miss Dale! She's all tucked out. We've worked her too hard."

"She's coming down in a few minutes, Mrs. Mason has just said," observed Craven, with a slight sneer.

And she did come down. The door on the other side of the room opened and Anna Granger entered. She was white as alabaster. The full terrible-ness of what she had done was tugging at her heart and soul.

"Ah, you have slept? You are better?" cried Temple, rising to greet her. Then turning to Craven: "Would you mind giving orders to the chauffeur to have the car ready in about an hour? We'll get there in good enough time."

"Got to go in that infernal eighty horsepower thing, after all. Bet you anything we strike a rock or something and hear angels' wings on our way!" was Craven's comment as he left the room.

"Miss Dale"—Temple fixed her gaze with a whimsical, ineffable smile—"the key to my liberty and my good name lies in my safe yonder. It is you only who can give it to me. I am glad."

He came a step nearer and a great light shone in his eyes. "It is the princess of my enchanted palace who shall give it to me. That is good."

With one long sobbing that rent itself straight from her torn heart, Anna stepped back.

"What is it, dear?" he cried, springing toward her, a big, wrapping tenderness in his voice. "You know, don't you? I am cleared now. That letter is the proof I have been waiting for I bring you honor, sweet; the penknife isn't all now."

"Oh, wait, wait, just a little minute!" she cried, struggling pitifully for self mastery.

"Oh, but surely you've guessed it, Anna. I love you with a love that has been waiting a good many years. I want you to be my wife, dear, won't you? Won't you?" He was holding her hands now compellingly, fighting for her answer in serene, unswerving fashion as had ever been his manner of fighting for all things that he wanted much.

But she swept back from him with a gesture. Then the words came with a rush:

"Mr. Temple, I have deceived you. I have deceived you from the first. I have been here under false pretenses. I am not Miss Dale. I am married. I have two children. I am—I am Robert Granger's wife!"

"Yes," she wept on breathlessly, having been awed into silence for a second by the look on Temple's face. "Robert Granger's wife. Now you begin to see a little, don't you? I came here to discover some evidence that would clear his name. If spying, shadowing, tracking could do I meant to get it. I meant to vindicate him and to send you to prison in his place."

O God, why did he look at her like that? How could she go on? The pained amazement, the crushed suffering in his face, they were gnawing at her vitals.

"But it was idle," she went on, the sob in her breath cutting like a sword. "I've failed. I know now that Robert is guilty. I know that you are not. I have found that out."

"Ah, you needed to be told!" He was speaking more to himself than to her. It was the protest of his heart against the blindness of his heart's princess.

"No, nobody told me; I found it out myself. I—I read that letter you put there—in the safe. I thought, it might be something that would clear my husband!"

"Poor little wife, poor little wife!" was Temple's only comment.

"—and it was just the opposite," she went on, struggling to finish her confession. "Sun and moon and stars and all the lights of heaven and earth they got frightened and left me in darkness somehow. Oh, it was dark, and I—I was groping! I heard my children calling, and I could not reach them because I had failed, because I had given them a father who was a thief. And then—I saw the flames beckoning in the grate, and I burnt the proof of their father's guilt—burnt it to ashes."

"AH, YOU POOR, POOR LITTLE MOTHER!" HE SAID GENTLY.

"You burnt?" His sentence would not finish itself. The woman buried her face in her hands that she might not see the agony in his eyes.

Temple continued to stand before her, grappling slowly with the horror, which loomed larger and darker, as it closed in on him. He stared from her to the safe, then back again. He, too, drew his hands across his eyes to cut out the picture of the woman who sank now on her knees before him, sobbing bitterly, convulsively.

"I didn't think, you see. I couldn't think," she moaned. "I saw only my boy's names branded through life."

Still he did not speak.

"Oh, why—why don't you say something? Why don't you curse me?"

A vast, overwhelming pity surged up in Temple's heart. Suddenly he forgot himself, his own horrible future, in the picture of the woman he loved so abased.

"Ah, you poor, poor little mother!" he said at last very gently. He laid his hand on her bowed head. "Please get up," he said hoarsely.

Anna rose and stepped back, her hands clasped closely against her breast. A light, akin to worship, shone in her eyes as she looked at him.

"That's what you have to say to me," she breathed—"that? It is like the magnanimity of God. I came into your life, deceiving you, spying upon you, cheating you. I've destroyed the one priceless thing that stood between you and prison, and now your thought is for me—my suffering and shame!"

Impulsively she raised his hand to her lips and held it there for an instant. It was not a caress, but a benediction.

"Oh, you prince of princes among men," she said reverently. "I have no words in which to tell you how I honor you."

Temple smiled sadly, remotely.

"I—I think I can understand why you came, why you deceived me, why you did this terrible thing. You were fighting for your children and the man you believed in, and you fought to the bitter end. It was natural, I suppose. I think I understand."

"No!" Anna's voice was low, but steady now, and she spoke with a sort of introspective finality. "No, it was not wholly natural. I—I had to fight to do it all. It wasn't easy, this deceiving you, this spying upon you. I had to go against my instinct every time—give the lie to my impulses. From the moment I saw you I must have been believing in you, I think. And every day since I've been here I've been believing more and more. No, you see, it wasn't wholly natural. I was fighting against hope."

"But the hope fought, too, didn't it, dear?" he asked solemnly.

A light leaped into her eyes.

"Aye," said she. "It was a fighting hope. It fought, and it has won," she whispered half to herself with trembling lips, looking far, far past him. And it was a joy to the man to see the smile in her eyes. "I know now with every faculty what my heart must have known from the first. I know that I—yes, I know," she shuddered. "but I mustn't say it."

"You love me!" cried he. "No, don't say it." He swallowed painfully. "But it will be a comfort to think sometimes that a scrap of the very best that is in you is mine. That can do no harm, can it?"

She could not answer for fear that her heart might tear from its moorings.

When she spoke it was an eminently practical thing she had to say:

"There's some way at least, thank God, in which I can repair a little the injury I have done you. When your case comes up for trial I can give my testimony. I can tell what became of that letter. I can repeat it, word for word, the foul thing. My testimony would have weight, would it not? It would have weight because it would be against my interest."

"It would have weight with the jury, yes," Temple nodded. A pause. "But"—he hesitated, then went on bravely—"no one knows of your having burned this letter?"

"Mrs. Mason knows. She's an old friend of my mother's. I found her here by chance. She knows, but she won't speak. She's on Robert's side. Oh, but she must speak! She must!" cried Anna, with sudden resolve. "She must help in this. She must help undo the wrong I have done. Ring for her, please. I want her."

"Mrs. Mason," said she when the housekeeper entered, taking in the situation at a glance. "I've got to go to court and tell what I've done. I've got to tell the truth. My testimony means Mr. Temple's liberty—and more."

The old New Englander had been almost prepared for this. Nevertheless she turned toward Burton Temple in indignant protest.

"Surely you won't ask her to do this?"

He shook his head gravely.

"I shall ask nothing," he said.

"You see, Anna. He'll not require it of you."

"I know," returned Anna dully. But Mrs. Mason didn't like the gleam that shone in her eyes. She attacked it first by cunning.

"You wouldn't have the heart to send your husband back to prison just as he's about to be pardoned or acquitted?"

"But he's guilty, you see, guilty as hell!" She leaned back in her chair with half closed eyes.

"Well, it's one thing to send a guilty husband to jail," continued Mrs. Mason, "and it's another thing to send your children's father there, branded a felon by their mother?"

She saw by the spasmodic clutch of Anna's hand on the arm of the chair how directly her shaft had gone home.

"You told me awhile ago that you'd failed in helping them," she pursued.

"You needn't fail. Why, I'd let every man on earth go to prison and stay there before I'd forget that I was a mother and had two boys with two names to carry through life!"

"I'll teach them to make their names over. I'll look out for my boys," Anna stirred on her chair tiredly.

"You'll teach them to make their names over? Why, Anna Granger, you told me only a half hour ago sobbingly in your room how their father's disgrace would be thrown in their faces all the days of their life!"

"Oh, I know, I know," moaned the woman on the chair.

"Well," concluded Mrs. Mason, "that's the thing for a mother in your place to remember, right or wrong. Learn it by rote if it isn't already born in you. Your duty is to your boys, to give your boys an honorable name."

"Ah, if I could! If I only could!" cried Anna bitterly. "But I can't give them that, you see."

"You can give them at least the appearance of an honest name whether their father is honorable or not. I'm not pleading any longer for Robert, the scamp. Let the men out of it, both your husband and—Mr. Temple."

She of the Puritan conscience nodded coldly to one side to where the big financier stood silently, taking no part in the discussion. "After all," she added, "I suppose Robert's no worse than a good many other men in the world of finance. You shouldn't judge him so harshly, Anna."

Anna's delicate brows twitched. When she spoke it was in an odd faint voice. Mrs. Mason and the whole room seemed to be moving out of her vision.

"I don't know many men," she said measuredly. "I never did judge Robert by a general standard. I judged him by the standard I held out to him before I married him. It was a pretty big one, but he knew it, and God forgive him, he knelt beside me and swore it was his own."

"And now"—again that spasmodic twitching of the brows, while the low, measured voice went on—"and now it's not only against my standard that I balance him. I weigh him against one who is my standard's standard."

WOMAN SICK TWELVE YEARS

Wants Other Women to Know How She Was Finally Restored to Health.

Louisiana, Mo.:—"I think a woman naturally dislikes to make her troubles known to the public, but complete restoration to health means so much to me that I cannot keep from telling mine for the sake of other suffering women."

"I had been sick about twelve years, and had eleven doctors. I had dragging down pains, pains at monthly periods, bilious spells, and was getting worse all the time. I would hardly get over one spell when I would be sick again. No tongue can tell what I suffered from cramps, and at times I could hardly walk. The doctors said I might die at one of those times, but I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got better right away. Your valuable medicine is worth more than mountains of gold to suffering women."

"—Mrs. BERTHA MUFF, 503 N. 4th Street, Louisiana, Mo.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, contains no narcotic or harmful drugs, and to-day holds the record of being the most successful remedy for female ills we know of, and thousands of voluntary testimonials on file in the Pinkham laboratory at Lynn, Mass., seem to prove this fact.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy darkens the hair and restores it to its youthful beauty. Our grandmothers and their grandmothers before them used sage and sulphur for darkening their hair. Nothing has ever been found more effective for this purpose than these two time-honored remedies, but Wyeth, a modern chemist, has combined the two with other ingredients, which make a delightful dressing for the hair, which not only removes every trace of dandruff but promotes the growth of the hair. It also stops the hair from falling out, and makes it beautiful.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THIS NEW DAY.

Miss the way yesterday?
Try again today.
If you failed yesterday you have a brand new chance to succeed today. Because—

This is a different world today from yesterday—altogether different. When you woke up this morning you woke up in a new world.

This morning? Why, this morning the world has turned completely over. And in turning over a whole lot of people and things were spilled completely out.

For instance—
Thousands of people have died during the past twenty-four hours. And it will be long before the thousands who have been born during the twenty-four hours will be able to take the jobs of those who died.

Which gives you a chance.
Get in. There are gaps in the line of the living. Get in before somebody picks up the dead man's gun and the ranks close up again.

And, then, a lot of people have done what you felt like doing yesterday—thrown up their hands, surrendered. They are quitters.

There always are quitters. Every time one of them steps out there is a good chance for you to step in. Yesterday is ancient history.

This is a new day today.
Yesterday you felt discouraged. Things went against you. You fought with your back to the wall. And your heart misgave you. You thought you had failed.

Well, you hadn't!
You were just merely being slowed up some. This morning you had a new chance. The kaleidoscope had changed. There was a new point of view. You learned something yesterday. Use that knowledge today.

It is your tryout.
This is a rough but kind world. It is putting you to the crucible test. It is trying you—as the furnace tries the gold. If you will let it do so it will melt the dross out of you and leave the refined gold.

Yesterday? The furnace seemed heated seven times its wont, but you are alive! The smell of the fire may be on your garments, but this is another day—and you are alive.

GRIP IS DREADED

Because It Lowers Vitality—What to Do.

It is not the disease itself, but the dangerous complications that follow it, that people fear with such good reason: the lingering coughs, the terrible weakness, and the liability of being attacked by pleurisy, pneumonia or some other serious ill.

We say it is highly important to free the system of every trace of grip and nothing is so good for this as Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron preparation which creates strength and builds up the body.

Mrs. C. L. Edwards, Long Branch, N. J., says: "Last February I had a very bad attack of grip and it left me with a terrible cough. For fully six weeks I coughed a great deal, and nothing had any effect on it, until I tried Vinol which soon gave me relief and has since brought about a complete cure."

Can anything be more convincing than Vinol is just what you need to build you up an make you strong? We guarantee it most positively. The Andrews Drug Co., Seymour, Ind.

Fifty Years Ago Today.
Jan. 19.

Battle at Mill Springs, Ky., between Confederates led by General George B. Crittenden, C. S. A., and Federals under George H. Thomas. Thomas won a sweeping victory in this his first important action in the war. It was the opening of a series of Federal victories west of the Alleghenies. General F. K. Zollicoffer, leader of the Confederate advance, was killed in a close encounter with the Fourth Kentucky regiment, whose colonel, S. S. Fry, shot him down with a pistol.

PRINCESS PATRICIA

New York Society Will Soon
Greet Cousin of the King.

New York, Jan. 19.—The Duke of Connaught, governor general of Canada, with the duchess and their daughter, Princess Patricia, are expected soon to visit the United States as the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Whitelaw Reid of New York. Princess Patricia, a cousin of King George, is one of the prettiest of the English princesses.

MINERS SIT DOWN ON
PLANS OF SOCIALISTSRefuse to Indorse That Political Party.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—When a resolution to indorse the Socialist party as the party of the workingman was voted down the attempt of the Socialist element in the United Mine Workers' organization to capture the convention in session here was frustrated. The movement for the secession of the organization from the American Federation of Labor was also voted down, but the convention adopted a resolution declaring in favor of the industrial form of organization to take the place of organization by crafts. The convention also indorsed the bill introduced in congress by Congressman Victor L. Berger, the Socialist member from Milwaukee, providing for government pensions for men and women who have reached the age of sixty years, and invited Congressman Berger to come here and address the convention.

The vote on the question of indorsing the Socialist party was a defeat for the Socialist movement in the convention. It stood 515 to 155 in favor of adopting the resolutions committee's substitute for the resolution of indorsement. The report of the tellers was submitted and John P. White was shown to have been elected president over Tom Lewis by a majority of 45,424. Lewis received 58,591 and White 104,015 votes. Frank J. Hayes was elected vice president and Edwin Perry secretary-treasurer.

An International Sensation.
Paris, Jan. 19.—Although no diplomatic complications are expected to arise from the seizure of the Transatlantic company's steamer Carthage by Italian destroyers in Italian territorial waters, there is much discussion of the incident by men versed in international jurisprudence. The ostensible reason for the seizure was that the ship was carrying aeroplanes intended for use by Duval and Obre, the aviators who are expected to operate with the Turkish army in Tripoli.

Couldn't Endure Reverses.
Lebanon, Ind., Jan. 18.—Mrs. Martha Helm, aged fifty-seven, committed suicide at her home here by hanging. At one time wealthy, she met with financial reverses, and it is to this fact that her suicide was due.

Sunday School Lesson

JANUARY 21, 1912.

BIRTH OF JESUS.

LESSON:—Luke, 2: 1-20.

GOLDEN TEXT:—For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, which is Christ the Lord.—Luke 2: 11.

Those days of verse 1 are spoken of in Gal. iv. 4, as "the fullness of time," the time appointed before the world was, for the great deliverer to come, for "known unto God are all His works from the beginning of the world" (Acts xv. 18). He declareth the end from the beginning and doeth according to His will both in heaven and on earth, turning the king's heart whithersoever He will (Isa. xlii. 10; Dan. iv. 35; Ps. cxxxv. 6; Prov. xxi. 1). So it came to pass that the world ruler's decree was used by the Lord of all the earth to fulfill His purpose and to cause the Prince of the kings of the earth, the King of kings and the Lord of lords to be born at the long before appointed time and place. But so out of harmony with God is this world which He made and the people who inhabit it that there was no room for the Creator in the world which He had made and no welcome for Him. "There was no room for them in the inn" (verse 7). Does the thought of it lead you to say, "Oh, come to my heart, Lord Jesus—there is room in my heart for Thee?" If so then you may rejoice in the comfort of John i. 12; Rev. iii. 20.

The story of the shepherds takes us back to Abel and to Moses and David and Amos, and the darkness makes us think of the darkness that now is and will be till He shall come again in His glory (Isa. ix. 1-3). The night is far spent, the day is at hand, and the time for our new bodies and the redemption of Israel is ever drawing nearer (Rom. xiii. 11, 12; Luke xxi. 28). The shepherds were doing just as they had always done, watching over their flocks, when the angel of the Lord came suddenly upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them (verse 9). Moses and David and Amos were keeping their flocks, Elisha was plowing, Peter and John and others at their nets, Matthew at the receipt of custom, when the special call came to them. It is required of some that they leave their former calling and of others that they continue where they were and therein abide with God (1 Cor. vii. 23, 24). Note the visits of the Lord to such lowly people as Hagar, Manoah and his wife, Gideon and others and in Isa. lvii. 15, His two dwelling places. To Zacharias and Mary and the shepherds there was given the heavenly "Fear not" (verse 10; L. 13, 30). It was also the angel's message on the resurrection morning (Matt. xxviii. 5). How can we explain our slowness to tell to all people the good tidings of great joy? Is it because the tidings have never brought us the joy unspeakable of 1 Pet. i. 8? The lepers of II Kings vii. 8, 9, put us to shame. What can we say to Christ? Suddenly a multitude of the heavenly host is heard by the shepherds saying, "Glory to God in the highest and on earth peace, good will toward men" (verse 14). Listen to the testimony of more than a hundred millions of angels in Rev. v. 11, 12, and then if you know that you are redeemed join more heartily in the song of Rev. v. 9, 10.

The Lord Jesus in all His life on earth never sought His own glory nor His own will, and it must have been with joy that He said to His Father in His great prayer, "I have glorified Thee on the earth" (John vi. 38; viii. 50; xvii. 4). Our motto should be "that God in all things may be glorified" (1 Pet. iv. 11; 1 Cor. x. 31). When the Lord Jesus shall have become the peace of Israel and shall have spoken peace to the nations through Israel then quickly shall the whole earth be filled with the glory of the Lord (Mic. v. 5; Zech. ix. 10; Num. xiv. 21). His people shall be willing in the day of His power (Ps. cx. 3). The angels, having executed their commission, went away into heaven; simply went home. How easy it sounds, how wonderful and glorious it is, that we have ever with us these ministering ones who behold the face of our Father in heaven (Heb. i. 14; Matt. xviii. 10). The shepherds did not seem to question for one moment the good news they had heard, and they considered the angels as the Lord's messengers, for they said, "Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us" (verse 15). They did not delay, but made haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger, as they had been told (verses 12, 16). It was not any kind of a figurative manger, but literally a place from which cattle ate their food. As a rule, the statements of Scripture are plain literal statements, and unless the language is plainly figurative, as when our Lord said, "I am the vine," "I am the door," "The trees of the field shall clap their hands," we must take it to mean just what it says. Accepting this babe as the Saviour, Christ the Lord, they made known what was told them concerning this child (verses 11, 17). With the artlessness of simple minded people they just believed what they had heard and told what they had seen, making us think of Peter and John, who said long afterward concerning the same person, "We cannot but speak the things we have seen."

THE LESSON QUIZ.

Jan. 21st.

(Copyright, 1910, by Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.)

The Birth of Jesus. Luke ii: 1-20.

Golden Text—For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord. Luke ii: 11.

(1.) Verses 1-2—Who were Caesar Augustus, and Cyrenius?

(2.) Verses 3-4—What was the political or national status of the Jews at this time?

(3.) Judah had neither king nor law-giver at this time; what prophecy is there which intimates that Messiah was to be born under such conditions?

(4.) Why was Bethlehem called the city of David, and what does the name of the city signify?

(5.) Verses 5-6—What would be a correct designation of a man who does not willingly pay his taxes?

(6.) Why were Joseph and Mary not to be censured, for travelling abroad at such a momentous and critical time?

(7.) Verse 7—Do we need to do anything special, except doing our every day duty, to help God bring to pass at the exact time and place whatever he has planned for us? Give your reasons.

(8.) Why was it the plan of God that Jesus should be born in Bethlehem in a stable, and cradled in a manger?

(9.) Does God have more interest in the masses or the classes, that is in the poor or the rich?

(10.) How do you account for it that no person gave up his room in the inn, and that no private citizen offered hospitality to a woman of such respectability, in such a serious condition?

(11.) Verses 8-10—Which method assures us of the more Divine revelations and why, specifically seeking them, or devoutly attending to our every day duties?

(12.) May any godly person in these days ever expect to be visited by an angel?

(13.) Why is there never any reason to fear, either a natural or a supernatural revelation, if we are serving God?

(14.) Verses 11-12—Why was the birth of Jesus good tidings to the shepherds and to all men?

(15.) Does wealth, or social position, or education, make people more sensitive to the supernatural, than the opposites of these things?

(16.) Verses 13-14—Did this host of angels come at this moment, or were they already there and the eyes of the shepherds "suddenly" opened, and their ears attuned, to see and hear them?

(17.) What if any reason is there to believe that we are constantly surrounded with a host of angels?

(18.) Verses 15-16—How much hurt or help would this revelation have been to the shepherds, if they had gone to Bethlehem to see for themselves?

(19.) Verses 17-18—How much obligation rests upon Christians, to make Jesus known to the world?

(20.) Verses 19-20—How is it that when we find out the facts concerning Jesus, that our hearts are so mightily stirred? (This is one of the questions that may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

OF DISCORD IN CUBAHarmony Talk Is Taken With a Grain of Salt.

Havana, Jan. 19.—Unless it should turn out that the veterans are merely sparring for time, the restoration of throughout Cuba seems to be assured. It should turn out that the veterans are merely sparring for time. Sundry veteran leaders said that they would continue the patriotic work of ousting the "guerillas" from office and purifying the government. After a meeting of the veterans, however, General Nunez, the president of that association, and Colonel Coronado, one of the leaders, visited the palace and had a long conference with President Gomez, at the conclusion of which the president stated that both of the veterans declared that they would be the first to contribute toward the re-establishment of peace throughout the republic and would avoid every pretext which might compromise the independence of the country and that in order that all motives for disquiet should disappear, they would send peremptory circulars to all clubs of veterans ordering the abandonment of the campaign.

Despite these promises of the veterans, however, and the alleged harmony following the conference at the palace, there is plenty of evidence of discord and a belief prevails that the conflict has not been settled. General Nunez, the veteran leader, says he detects in the intervention threat collusion between Arthur M. Beaupre, the American minister here, and the government at Washington, perhaps for stock jobbing. Reports from Santiago and Camaguey show that there is indignation at these places at the American note, which is declared to be utterly unjustified.

DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP
YIELD TO ZEMO TREATMENT.

Why should you continue to experiment with salves, greasy lotions and fancy hair dressings trying to rid your scalp of germ life. They can't do it because they cannot penetrate to the seat of the trouble and draw the germ life to the surface of the scalp and destroy it.

Why not try a PROVEN REMEDY? One that will do this. We have a remedy that will rid the scalp of germ life and in this way will cure DANDRUFF AND ITCHING SCALP.

This remedy is ZEMO, a clean, refined, penetrating scalp tonic that goes right to the seat of the trouble and drives the germ life to the surface and destroys it.

A shampoo with ZEMO (ANTI-SEPTIC) SOAP and one application of ZEMO will entirely rid the scalp of dandruff and scurf. Do not hesitate, but get a bottle of ZEMO today. It acts on a new principle and will do exactly what we claim for it.

The council did well to demand, before final steps are taken, something more than an informal verbal promise from a subordinate official that the railroad company will pay half the expenses of the proposed Jeffersonville avenue improvement. A railroad company is not in the habit of proceeding with important work without contracts are signed and there is no reason why it should expect the city to begin a work which contemplates the expenditure of considerable public money, without a written agreement which will prevent the possibility of any slips or future misunderstandings. No one interested in the proposed improvement will benefit more than the railroad. The improvement is desirable but it is proper to fully safeguard the taxpayers' and property owners' interests before going farther.

Now that President Taft has commuted the sentence of Charles W. Morse, on the grounds that he can live but a few months longer, it is up to the ex-banker to fulfil predictions. A rapid recovery to health and return to high finance would put in a bad light his rich friends who have for months been so loudly giving their word that Morse can live but a short time.

The proposition of The Indianapolis Star to hold the Republican state convention after the national convention this year has merit in it. The clamor to get on the state ticket can probably be suppressed until that time.

Finger-nails Uncut for Twenty-Seven Years.

A celebrated Chinese priest, resident in Shanghai, is a good example of the length to which the natives of this country will go in order to gain notoriety and draw in the money. In the case of this individual, his holiness and "Good Joss" are apparently gauged by the length of his finger-nails, the longest of which is twenty-two and three quarters inches in length, being as far as can be learned a record for this country of long finger-nails. When not on show he is so mindful of his treasures that he wears them in guards made of hollow bamboo, and great precautions are taken that they do not get broken. They appear to be a money-making concern, as, in a conversation with the writer, he stated that up till the present year he has had plenty of business, and worshippers at his temple have been very numerous. It is only to be hoped that the ministers of the gospel at home do not attempt to copy his idea to draw the backsliders, as he states that it took him twenty-seven years of careful cultivation before they reached their present length.—From the February Strand.

The Most Remarkable Prison in the World.

When the authorities of Graham County, Arizona, decided to look about for a place in which to confine criminals, they found a natural depression in the side of a hill. This was enlarged into what might be called an artificial cave, divided into four compartments. The cave was excavated parallel to the side of the mountain in which it was made, and daylight admitted by holes blown out of the wall with explosives, the windows being guarded by a network of heavy steel bars. The entrance to the depression was also closed in the same manner, and a vestibule or porch of masonry built out from it to provide quarters for the sheriff and his assistants. This vestibule is also divided into compartments, which are connected with gates of steel bars. The only way of entering the prison is through the vestibule of masonry, and in order to escape the inmates would have to cut their way out through three sets of bars which are an inch in thickness, as the windows are so high up above the rock forming the floor of the cells that they could not reach them. It is necessary, however to have a very secure place, as the criminals in this part of the country are of a most desperate class, and the inmates frequently include murderers and highwaymen. The mountain which has thus been turned into a prison is composed of solid quartz rock, and the excavation was made principally by the use of explosives. The jail is located in the town of Clinton, the county seat.—From the February Wide World Magazine.

SENTENCE SERMONS.

It's a good deal easier to believe that the angels love many sinners than that they love all the saints.

If you really want to know the world you will do more than investigate its shadows and sample its garbage cans.

When you are able to set your religion in a compartment of your life, life itself comes along and locks up the file.

You may know how much a man is really worth by seeing how much he puts in after singing, "Here, Lord, I give myself away."

Fireless Cooker Improved.

A decided disadvantage of the fire-less cooker is that it is not entirely fireless, for the heat of a stove or gas jet is necessary in order to bring the food to be cooked to the proper temperature where the cooking process continues after being placed in the interior of the cooker. A new form of the fireless cooker makes use of the electric current for the purpose of imparting this initial heat, and the combination is said to represent a great convenience and economy.

Flat Chest.

The occupation of a bookkeeper tends to bring the head and shoulders forward and cramp the chest. Try to sit more erect and learn to stand tall, and stretch the body to its full height.
Many defects of the figure are due to bad postures, but by exercise many defects can be corrected.

Italics First Used by Venetian.
Italics were first used about A. D.
1500 by Manutius, a Venetian printer, who dedicated them to the Italian states. Hence the name. The first book set up in italics was an edition of Vergil printed at Venice by Aldus in 1501. A copy of this rare book is preserved in the British museum.

One Instance in His Mind.
She—And you say that you have always avoided blaming me. I'd like to have you mention one instance.
He—With pleasure. Remember, right after we were married, I ate a pie you baked, and when the doctor came I told him it was clams.

BIG BATCH OF INDICTMENTS

Looked for In the Case of Dynamiters.

MANY COUNTS ARE EXPECTED

From the Probably Voluminous Nature of a Large Number of Indictments Looked for When Federal Grand Jury Makes Its Forthcoming Report It Is Thought a Bushel Basket Will Be Required to Contain Them All.

Indianapolis, Jan. 19.—When the dynamite investigation closes, in about two weeks, the expectation at the government building is that literally "a bushel of indictments" will be returned. At least thirty indictments are expected. Many of these, it is thought, will be voluminous, as against a good many of the men alleged to have been involved in the dynamite conspiracy, a large number of counts are expected. Thus the bulk of indictments, it is thought, will be so large that at least a Lashel basket will be necessary to hold the papers.

Frank Eckhoff, the Cincinnati core-maker, who was a close friend of J. J. McNamara, and shared many of the latter's secrets, has left Indianapolis. This young man, whom it is believed McNamara was training with the ultimate purpose of inducing him to become a member of the dynamiting gang, had been here a month. Thus for more than thirty days he was on the government pay roll. It is said he has been before the grand jury several times, but that his testimony has now been completed.

ELECTROCUTED

Factory Foreman and Young Woman
Victims of Live Wire.

Logansport, Ind., Jan. 19.—Samuel Watkins, aged forty, and Edith Schroeder, twenty, were electrocuted and the South Side Broom company's factory, where they were employed, was destroyed by fire. Watkins, who was the manager, apparently went to the switch controlling the current used in "sparking" a gasoline engine. He received the full primary current. It is supposed the girl went to his rescue and in trying to drag him away received a similar voltage. Fred Buckman, who dragged the bodies from the burning building, was severely burned and may die. Jacob Westerveller, assistant fire chief, was severely shocked by a live wire.

The city high tension wire became crossed with a 110-volt wire leading to the factory, and when Watkins turned on the power 2,300 volts passed through his body. The plant was owned by W. H. Maxwell.

Within the last two years six people have been killed here as the result of crossed wires.

Burglars Put Up Fierce Fight.

Bloomington, Ind., Jan. 19.—After a desperate fight, in which they were compelled to call on the fire department for assistance, Patrolmen Hinkle and Stevens arrested Henry Wilson and Fred Lewis, negroes, in the Campbell department store. The negroes were burglarizing the store and had scattered goods over three floors when they were discovered.

Came Near Creating Panic.

Evansville, Ind., Jan. 19.—During the second act of the performance of "The Man From Home," at the Wells-Bijou theater here, J. Lee Darneal, a stage hand, fell from the top of the "flies" to the concrete floor of the stage, a distance of sixty feet. His skull was fractured and he died. The accident almost caused a panic in the theater.

The Coroner's Verdict.

Owensville, Ind., Jan. 19.—That Leslie C. Hunter, the young business man who died very suddenly at his home here, committed suicide by taking a quantity of strychnine, is the verdict of Coroner Bass. The motive for the deed was financial reverses. Hunter had confessed to forging the name of several wealthy farmers to notes.

Prison For McKnight.

Bloomfield, Ind., Jan. 19.—The jury in the case of Louis McKnight, on trial for the killing of Andrew Magulok at Jasonville last October, returned a verdict of manslaughter, carrying an indeterminate sentence of from two to twenty-one years in prison.

Eluded the Police.

Fort Wayne, Ind., Jan. 19.—Eluding the Fort Wayne police, George Von Luepkin, aged twenty-eight, who shot and attempted to kill Frederick Stelbreck, is still at liberty. Stelbreck is in the hospital, where it is said he will recover.

Plans For Big Sham Battle.

Portland, Ind., Jan. 19.—Plans are being made for a sham battle, to be fought by the combined militia companies of Muncie, Anderson, Newcastle, Portland and Winchester.

Freed in Police Court.

South Bend, Ind., Jan. 19.—After a preliminary hearing in police court John J. Luther, confessed murderer of Thomas M. Bauer, was freed on the ground of self-defense.

The KITCHEN CABINET

WE MUST live through the dreary winter. If we would value the spring; And the woods must be cold and silent Before the robins sing. The flowers must be buried in darkness Before they can bud and bloom. And the sweetest, warmest sunshine Comes after the storm and the gloom.

NOVEL AND DAINTY SANDWICHES

Every hostess, when entertaining, racks her brain for something that will be a little different from those served by her friends. When preparing the sandwiches why not use fancy cutters instead of the squares and triangles which have been the thing so long? Some will say, "there is so much waste in using cutters." That is true, but those scraps need not be wasted, and sandwiches of this kind are so much more attractive, a point that every entertainer strives for.

The greater the variety of cutters you possess the more stylish will be your refreshments.

The hardest part of making sandwiches is in cutting the bread thin enough. The more wafer-like, the more dainty they are.

To make especially nice sandwiches, the crust of the bread is removed. The butter used for spreading sandwiches should be creamed until soft and waxy. Nuts chopped and mixed with cream cheese will make most delectable sandwich filling.

When meat is used it is better to chop it and add the desired seasonings and milk or cream to make it of the consistency to spread.

Spanish peppers pounded to a paste and mixed with cream cheese is another tasty combination.

Preserved ginger chopped and thinned to spread with some of the sirup is another favorite with those who are fond of ginger.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

The first installment of Taxes must be paid on or before the FIRST MONDAY in MAY, otherwise the whole tax will be delinquent and subject to penalties. Particular attention is called to the fact that spring payments, having been extended to the first Monday in May, gives the treasurer less time to make settlements, and it will be to the interest of the taxpayers to be as prompt as possible in paying the same. The second installment must be paid on or before the FIRST MONDAY in NOVEMBER following. Road receipts must be presented on or before the FIRST MONDAY in MAY, 1912. They will not be taken on second installment of taxes.

Call on Auditor for irregularities in Taxes or for reductions to be made. Treasurer cannot make such reductions.

County orders cannot be paid to anyone owing delinquent taxes, and all persons are hereby warned against purchasing such order.

The annual sale of delinquent lands and lots will take place on the second Monday in February, 1912, at 10 o'clock, a. m.

Persons desiring statement of their taxes must make their request at least ten days before the last day as we cannot stop to send statements during the last days of collection.

Parties having complications please come before the rush incident to the last days of Taxpaying.

The Treasurer is guided by the Statutes of Indiana, from which there is no relief. Do not ask him to violate his oath. Taxes unpaid after the first Mondays in May and November are subject to the 10 per cent penalty. We intend to follow the law in each and every case. If taxpayers would avoid the penalty prescribed by law, payment must be made not later than Monday, May 6th, and November 4th, 1912. Remittance post marked Monday, May 6th, and November 4th, and reaching this office next day will be accepted.

Persons owing delinquent taxes should pay them at once. The late law is of such a character that there is no option left the Treasurer but to enforce the collection of delinquent taxes, however much he may regret to collect the same, by sale of property. Nothing is exempt from taxes.

HENRY PRICE,

Treasurer of Jackson County.

SPECIAL NOTICE.

Parties having school fund loan on which interest is delinquent will please give payment of said interest their attention before the first day of March, 1912, as the law compels the prompt collection of said interest.

H. W. WACKER, Auditor Jackson County, Indiana.

CHAPTER IX.

BACK FROM PRISON.

TO Mrs. Mason's narrow, unbending, shortsighted code everything in life was prepared in advance—a man's political convictions, a woman's religious convictions, a child's nursery stories, the babies' prayers. Her puritan soul was outraged wholly now, and, flushing angrily, with an instinctive shrinking back of her whole person, she attacked the woman before her.

"May the Lord have mercy on such women as you, Anna Granger! You're wicked, flagrantly, deliberately wicked, to utter such thoughts. Isn't it enough to have the unlawful feeling?" She wheeled suddenly to Temple. "Oh, I've seen for a long time that you loved her. Every one has seen it. But I thought her sense of decency."

Temple stepped forward at that, his eyes blazing.

"Mrs. Mason," he said forbiddingly, "don't you think you have gone quite far enough? Have you no pity, no sense of womanliness?"

The housekeeper winced at the man's tones. The words escaped her. Anna had risen. Very white and still, she stood for a second. Then:

"Mr. Temple, I must leave this house, leave it at once. But you may count upon me. When your case comes up for trial I shall be there. I am going to clear you, Mrs. Mason thinks—her eyes traveling slowly to the elder woman—"that it's not because you're innocent that I insist upon giving my testimony. She thinks it's because I love you. I do. But you at least know I'm nothing further to hope from this. I am Robert Granger's wife till death!"

Temple bowed.

"Yes, I know," he said simply. "I want you—in my soul I want you—to be always as you are now—right and loyal."

"That is what I longed to hear you say, just those words," said she, with a little, quick, sobbing breath.

Mrs. Mason was forgotten. For a brief moment they two were alone, removed from the rest of the world. The silence was eloquent, yet never had Burton Temple felt farther from the woman he loved than now after she had made her heart's confession. He adored her inaccessibility, her code of honor as wife and mother.

It was she who broke the silence, and when she spoke the great motherliness of her voice sank into his troubled soul and quieted him.

"It had to come some day—the awakening. Will you try to believe me when I say it is not all a loss, because we will not allow it to be a loss? Because we are going to do right, you and I."

She smiled up at him with trembling lips and eyes running over. Then she lifted one hand and placed it upon his dark head, even as he a little while ago had placed his upon her own. And in this case again it was not a caress, but a benediction, and he understood.

She turned and moved evenly toward the door. There came a sharp rap, a feverish, insistent, wild sort of rap, and she paused. Cato looked up alertly from his nap and threw back his ears.

Temple stepped quickly to the door and threw it open. Then, in amazement, he stepped back.

"Granger!" he exclaimed. "What are you doing here?"

A little white faced man, wearing a long ulster and carrying his hat in his hand, entered. It was not his close cropped hair and subservient handdog manner alone which witnessed to the late prison life and discipline; the timid, interval spaced movement of the lockstep bore its witness as well.

He cast but one sickly glance of confusion at Burton Temple. Then he turned to the woman who stood stone still at one side of the door staring at him piteously.

"Anna, I've been pardoned," he said, coming to her quickly. "I came here at once, you see. I want to speak with you for a moment alone." His words were hurried, furtive, like the jailbird accustomed to sneaking whispers in the prison line to his pal. Involuntarily the wife shivered.

"There's no need, Robert," she answered dully. "There's nothing to conceal now; they know who I am." Wearily she turned to Temple. "The pardon has been granted," said she.

Temple bowed, without speaking.

"Yes," broke in Granger with nervous haste. "They've been working for a pardon for some time, you know. You've seen it in the papers, haven't you? You see, the public felt that I was innocent, unjustly condemned, so—"

He paused, seeing a slight, beseeching gesture of his wife to Temple. The big financier understood and, turning, quit the room quietly, leaving man and wife together. Mrs. Mason, whose curiosity was quite as alive as her conscience, stayed. It wouldn't do to miss this meeting. Maybe it was her duty to stay!

"I want you to leave this house, to come away with me at once. There's no longer any need for proofs of vindication, you see," Granger said to Anna, hastily kissing her.

She submitted, battling down the shudder of disgust which the touch of his lips fetched her. After all, he was her husband.

"Yes, I'll go with you," she said lifelessly. She wondered how she could live with this thief all the rest of her days.

"You see, Anna, every one knew I was innocent; every one believed in me. Now I must get away to some place where I can rest, where no one will ask me questions or harry me for I'm tired to death—to death. Oh, still catching no responsive light on the immobile face before him, "it was your belief in me, Anna, that gave me courage all along."

She looked at him, shuddering. "But I don't believe in you, Robert," she said. "I know."

Under the man's prison pallor rose a sort of grayish fright.

"Know! Know what?" he asked sharply.

"I know that you are not innocent, Robert!"

At those words all the bravado went out of Granger, as a tiny spark suddenly goes out touched by a block of ice.

"Sh-h-h! What do you mean any how? I am innocent; I am." He did not whisper now; he almost shrieked, even as he had in court that day when the jury pronounced him guilty. And now, as then, he fancied he saw over his head the cruel Roman symbol of vengeance, the faces and the ax—saw too, the calm women who spin the thread of life, crouching on the shadowy frescoed wall of the courtroom, a naked skull at their feet.

Something seemed to grip his throat. He struggled an instant, then he coughed and spat. He drew his hands across his eyes and pulled himself together.

"I am innocent, innocent!" he insisted.

"Don't! Don't, Robert!" cried Anna, pity at the shameful sight of her perjured husband rising in her heart. "I know the whole of it. I've read the letter you wrote to Cornelius Brady, you see."

He shook as a man seized suddenly by some deadly disease. Then instinctively, fearfully, he looked toward Mrs. Mason.

"She knows all," said Anna quietly. "Who has that letter? Where is it? Has Temple got it? My God, why don't you tell me?"

"There is no letter now, Robert. I read it, and I burned it without thinking."

"You destroyed it? Then it can't be used against me! Oh, Anna, you're a trump!" He seized both her hands and kissed them in a frenzy of relief. Even in that pivotal moment, though, when the weight of months had fallen from him and left him light, a suspicion came to him, a jailbird suspicion.

"But you said 'without thinking.' Without thinking what, Anna?"

"Without thinking that as well as convicting you that letter was the only evidence to vindicate Mr. Temple," answered she calmly.

Then Mrs. Mason, with a sneer, made it plain.

"Maybe your wife feels that an innocent man mustn't be sent to prison. Mr. Granger, or maybe she feels some stronger motive. I remember that you were adverse to her staying on here the day that I saw you. Now, I believe, she thinks of giving evidence about the destruction of that letter."

At the last sentence the ugly, condemning, vindictive expression which he came into Granger's face at her incriminating words vanished.

"Anna, it's not true! It couldn't be true that you would expose me!" he gasped in a sort of terror. "You are not going to tell about that letter? Why, I am your husband, Anna—your husband! I did certify that check. Yes, I did. But, good God, why should you want to ruin me?"

He sank at her feet in pitiful, abject appeal.

"Anna, as your husband, as a man who loves you and whom you once loved, I say, forgive me. Great heavens! I've repented. I've paid thrice over again for my folly. What can I do now? I can't undo what's been done. It's you who must wipe out the stain; help me to begin over again. Your forgiveness would be absolution. Anna, you will forgive me?"

Curiously the woman touched his shoulder. Instinctively she wanted to feel just a little bit alive. But she might as well have touched a post of wood. It seemed as though the very faculty of feeling had been obliterated within her.

"Forgive you? I suppose I must, Robert," she said lifelessly. "All women forgive. They were put into the world like priests or governors, I think. Only we are not supposed to give penances or sentences"—Her voice trailed off wearily.

"You see, Anna," Granger went on, trying to excuse himself. "I knew I hadn't made the success of my life that you'd expected. It touched my pride to the quick to see you living in that narrow way—you, who might have been a queen among women." A look of cunning came into his face.

"And then, the boys?"

"But, Robert, didn't you know that I would sooner have worked my fingers to the bone and my brain to a little white spot than have you do this awful thing? Didn't you know I would sooner have worn rags than have you steal?" She made a pitiful little gesture and ended with a half sob.

"I know, I know," said he. "It's easy now to see what a mad idea it all was. But I had that chance to get a fresh start in life. With money I could do big things; I could make myself all that you wanted me to be. The boys were growing up. We needed more for them for college and to give them a fair start.

"And listen, Anna"—he moistened his lips—"I've invested the money. I put it in stocks that would pay well; I was going to use the interest for you and the boys, a little at a time. You see, it was for you and them I did it. I was a fool, perhaps—I was worse. Yes, I know. But you'll help me now, won't you? I need you!"

The appeal had gone home; he had aroused the maternal instinct, always dominant in Anna's breast. (The "Largo of Motherhood" in the "Symphony of Womanhood" was playing again.) She put out her hand toward him again with a quick, unconscious gesture, such as she used in the nursery when the children were tired or naughty.

"Yes, Robert," she admitted, "you do need some one. You need me, yes."

Craven's voice, speaking to the butler in the hall, broke in upon them.

"Not in the library? Well, find him and tell him his car's ready now. Just saw the chauffeur drive up. Tell him I'll be with him in a minute. Have a letter to rattle off first."

"It's Craven, the attorney," explained Anna, following Robert's fright ened look toward the door.

"I don't want to see any one," shivered Granger. "Can't we go in there?" He motioned to a door on the opposite side of the room. Realizing how sensitive he must feel, Anna nodded.

"Yes, go. I'll call you when he's left."

The door had barely closed upon his retreating figure when Craven blustered in. Evidently as yet he knew nothing either of Anna's confession or of her husband's presence.

"Miss Dale, please rattle off a letter for me," said he, settling down in a chair and pulling some notes hurriedly out of his pocket.

"But hasn't Mr. Temple told you?" Anna hesitated before taking the dictation.

"Eh? Told me? What?" snapped Craven, buried in his notes. "He'll tell me later, I suppose." Of course it was this matrimonial nonsense. "Meanwhile, Miss Dale, you'll just take this direct to the machine, won't you? It's not long. It's to call off a lot of unnecessary work in regard to the Granger woman."

"The Granger woman?"

"Oh, I mean, of course, the woman in the Granger case. Quite another thing, isn't it? None of that evidence is required now, you see," he went on, straightening out his notes. "We got it, though, all right, all right. Had it ready."

"New York Detective bureau, 1429 Broadway, New York," Craven began to dictate.

Obediently the machine's keys ticked off the address.

"Gentlemen—Your letter of Oct. 7 received. I note you have evidence to the effect that Granger invested a large sum in New York Central stock, and the dividends were made payable to the woman he was keeping, one Rose Fanchon."

The taut nerves of the secretary snapped at that. For one little second she half rose from the typewriter, then sat down, clenching her hands painfully together. Craven, at the slight pause, looked inquiringly over his glasses.

"Beg pardon, Mr. Craven," said she. "You can go on. The heat or something—it was my head again."

"Sorry I had to trouble you again tonight, Miss Dale," said he, "but it'll only be a moment now."

"This Rose Fanchon is a high priced lady. I've learned, and Granger must have needed his one hundred thousand." And he continued to dictate.

"Mr. Temple appreciates the good work you have done. Kindly send bill to date, but do not carry work further, as such evidence is not now needed. Very truly."

Craven leaned back in his chair, comfortable and for the nonce communicative.

"You see, Miss Dale," said he as she addressed the envelope, "this little skunk of a Granger has kept this New York Central stock in his own name and only paid over the dividends to the woman. Pretty good joke on Rosie, eh? I tell you this, because I know you are interested in the case."

"The woman believes she has those gilt edged securities safely tucked away in a box, and he's fooled her neatly. Kept the stock himself, so he could buy another woman if he wanted her, I dare say. By George, that fellow did up everything brown! Well, Rosie wouldn't do a thing to him if she knew!"

He chuckled as he glanced over the letter Anna had just handed him.

"Much obliged, Miss Dale." Still chuckling, he hastily left the room.

Mail Carriers Will Fly.

This is an age of great discoveries. Progress rides on the air. Soon we may see Uncle Sam's mail carrier flying in all directions, transporting mail. People take a wonderful interest in a discovery that benefits them. That's why Dr. King's New Discovery for Coughs, Colds and other throat and lung diseases is the most popular medicine in America. "It cured me of a dreadful cough," writes Mrs. J. F. Davis, Stickney Corner, Me., "after doctor's treatment and all other remedies had failed." For coughs, colds or any bronchial affection its unequalled. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free at The Andrews Drug Co.

HANDICAPPED

This is the Case With Many Seymour People.

Too many Seymour citizens are handicapped with bad backs. The unceasing pain causes constant misery, making work a burden and stooping or lifting an impossibility. The back aches at night, preventing refreshing rest and in the morning is stiff and lame. Plasters and liniments may give relief but cannot reach the cause. To eliminate the pains and aches you must cure the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sick kidneys—thousands testify to their merit. Can you doubt Seymour evidence?

Mrs. William Abbott, 112 E. Second St., Seymour, Ind., says: "I am a firm believer in the merits of Doan's Kidney Pills and I do not know what I would have done were it not for this remedy. My back was very lame and sore and for days at a time, I could hardly get about. The kidney secretions were also unnatural and caused me no end of annoyance. Having heard and read so much about Doan's Kidney Pills, I finally decided to give them a trial and procured a supply. The results both surprised and delighted me and after I had taken the contents of three boxes of this rem-edy, the contents of three boxes of this rem-edy was removed."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Currying a Short Horse.

"Doctor," the caller complained, "I have headache all day long. I want you to see if you can do something to relieve me." "Well," the eminent specialist said, "I shall have to make an examination, particularly at the base of the brain, and it will be necessary for you to take off that high, tight collar." The caller did so. "Why, doctor, the headache has gone!" "I thought so. Wear looser collars. Five plunks, if you please. Thanks Good day."

Superstition of "The King's Evil."

"James I., when he was brought to England, had strong theological objections to the old superstition of the royal gift of healing, and requested to be spared from performing the traditional ceremony. His English advisers, however, were well aware of the peculiar value set upon it in the southern kingdom, and urged that to relinquish it would rob the crown of a portion of its dignity. James prudently resigned himself."—"The King's Evil," by Raymond Crawford.

What Makes A Woman?

One hundred and twenty pounds, more or less, of bone and muscle don't make a woman. Its a good foundation. Put into it health and strength and she may rule a kingdom. But that's just what Electric Bitters give her. Thousands bless them for overcoming fainting and dizzy spells and for dispelling weakness, nervousness, backache and tired, listless, worn out feeling. "Electric Bitters have done me a world of good," writes Eliza Pool, Depew, Okla., "and I thank you, with all my heart, for making such a good medicine." Only 50c. Guaranteed by The Andrews Drug Co.

ELBRIDGE HANEY

His Illness Causes Postponement of Hearing in the Lorimer Case.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The investigation into the election of Senator Lorimer of Illinois has adjourned again because of the continued illness of Elbridge Haney of counsel for Mr. Lorimer.

CLEMENCY EXTENDED TO CHARLES W. MORSE

President Gives Bank Wrecker a Chance to Die in Freedom.

Washington, Jan. 19.—The sentence of Charles W. Morse has been commuted by President Taft, to expire at once.

This action was decided upon following the receipt of a report from Surgeon General Torney of the army, who told Attorney General Wickersham that Morse could not live more than one month longer if kept in confinement nor more than six months if released.

Charles W. Morse was convicted in the federal court in New York on Nov. 5, 1908, of having misapplied the funds and made false entries in the books of the National Bank of North America, of which he was vice president. He was sentenced the next day to fifteen years in the federal prison at Atlanta.

Morse Was Eliminated.

Before the panic of 1907 Morse's operations were subject of comment in the financial district. The conservatives feared he was over-extending himself. When the panic came he had a string of four important New York banks, the American Ice company and the Consolidated Steamship company, which was a merger of the coastwise companies. In the panic he was eliminated from everything, and then came the criminal prosecution. In passing sentence Judge Hough said that Morse had used the bank and the depositors' money for his own speculative purposes. "If such schemes did not entail severe punishment," said the court, "the public is at the mercy of adventurers rich enough to buy up the control of a bank."

In 1901 Morse married the divorced wife of Charles F. Dodge. In 1904 Dodge asserted that he had never been served in the divorce proceedings. The case got into the courts. The validity of the Dodge-Morse marriage was upheld and Abe Hummel, Dodge's lawyer, was sent to jail for a year for perjury. Mrs. Morse has been indefatigable in her efforts to secure her husband's release.

Illness Detains Him.

Atlanta, Ga., Jan. 19.—"Thank God," said Charles W. Morse, when told that he had been pardoned by President Taft. While the pardon removes Morse from the watchful eyes of the government, it is hardly probable that he will leave the fort soon. The present indications are that it will be some time before he is able to stand even the short trip to the city, and until he is he will remain in the ward he has occupied since being transferred from prison.

Three Banquets in One Night.

Washington, Jan. 19.—President Taft began his 1912 travels today with a trip to New Haven, where he will spend the night, and after the Yale corporation meeting tomorrow will go to New York, where he is scheduled to attend three banquets, that of the New York Bar association, the Society of the Genesee and the Twenty-four Kar-at club.

OSLER RIGHT; YOUTH SUCCEEDS AGE

Gray Hair Is First Sign of Age. Harmless Remedy Restores to Natural Color.

Osler isn't the only man who turns down old age. In the business world the "young man" is always the one who picks the plums. It is an age of "new thought," "new talent," etc., and the old man is passed by in the race.

One of the first signs of coming age is the appearance of gray hairs. When you see them, act promptly. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy will correct this sign, which so often deceives people into thinking that age is really upon them. It is a well-known fact that Sage and Sulphur will darken the hair. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur combines these old-time remedies with other agents, which remove dandruff and promote the growth of the hair.

The manufacturers of this remedy authorize the druggists to sell it under guarantee that the money will be refunded if it fails to do exactly as represented.

Don't look old before your time. Get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur to-day, and see what an improvement it will make in the appearance of your hair.

This preparation is offered to the public at fifty cents a bottle, and is recommended and sold by all druggists. Special Agents, Andrews Drug Co.

EASY AND SURE WAY TO CURE COLDS

Don't Neglect a Cold, Stop it in the Sneezing Stage. Use Ely's Cream Balm.

A cold generally attacks the weakest part, affecting the eyes and ears in some and producing nasal catarrh and throat troubles in others. A cold is due to an inflammation of the membrane lining the passages, and may be promptly cured with a little Ely's Cream Balm, which immediately relieves the inflammation and all the distressing symptoms, such as sneezing, coughing, running at the nose and eyes, hoarseness, sore throat, fever and headache. One reason why this pure, astringent Balm acts so quickly is because it is applied directly to the tender, sore surfaces.

Even in severe, chronic cases of catarrh, Ely's Cream Balm never fails to quickly and effectually check the poisonous discharge which clogs the head and throat, causing the disgusting howling, spitting and blowing of the nose. This remedy not only drives out the rottenness, but heals and strengthens the weakened and diseased membranes, thus ending catarrh for all time.

Catarrh is a filthy, disgusting disease. Don't put up with it another day. Get a 50 cent bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from your druggist to-day.

MORE PAY

For B. & O. S-W. Employees At Washington.

Prosperity news has come from the Baltimore and Ohio Southwestern shows that will bring joy to the workmen employed there. The company is taking steps to increase the wages of about three hundred or three hundred and fifty of its workmen by a cent and a half on the hour. This news will come as a welcome surprise to the workmen as the increase was unsolicited on their part, it being a voluntary move on the part of the company.

The first step in this direction was taken the first of the year when the wages of about fifty of the employees were increased, some of them a cent and others a cent and half more on the hour. About fifteen machinists and helpers employed in the round house, a few boiler shop workmen and ten car inspectors were among those granted increases. The station workmen employed at points between this city and St. Louis were also included in this list. John Rose, foreman of the tin shop and Ross Kelly, a wreck crew foreman, were each given increases of $10 per month.

A list bearing the names of approximately three hundred workmen employed at the shops, is said to be on file in the master mechanic's office and this entire number will be given increases in their wages sometime soon. Instead of making the increase all at once it is said the plans are to raise the wages of about fifty or seventy-five of the men a month. Since the last rise in wages the highest paid machinist at the shops is making 38 cents an hour, the most that was ever paid to this class of workmen in this city and as high as is paid anywhere along the entire line of the B. & O.—Bedford Democrat.
